

Skagit Land Trust
Volunteer Land Steward
Position Description

Mission: "To protect wildlife habitat, wetlands, agriculture and forest lands, scenic open space and shorelines throughout the mainland and islands of Skagit County for the benefit of our community and as a legacy for future generations."

Volunteer land stewards are vital to insuring preservation of the outstanding values for which the property was acquired. Effective stewardship requires a long-term commitment to the land, which can be best achieved when an individual adopts a property and provides stewardship for successive years.

The following is a description of a land steward's responsibilities; however, each property has a unique set of characteristics and management objectives that need to be implemented and monitored.

Required Land Steward Tasks

The following tasks are essential to the Trust being responsible landowners.

- Monitoring: Visit the property once per quarter. Additional visits do not require reports unless a change or concern has been observed.
- Reporting: After each visit complete a Monitoring Report (form provided) and submit. Inform the Trust of incidents of property intrusions and changing conditions as soon as they are detected. Reporting on "no change" is just as valuable as reporting on problems.
- Consultation: Be available to consult with the Trust about land management goals and objectives for property. Be available for a review/evaluation of your Land Steward role every two years.
- Resignation: If possible, notify Trust staff prior to leaving your position with as much time as possible.

Additional Land Steward Activities

Based on your interest, skills and availability; there are many other stewardship tasks with which the Trust could use assistance. Conducting these tasks are not required to be a land steward, but assistance is greatly appreciated:

Public Contact:

- Contact neighboring landowners and users of the property to offer information about the Trust, its management objectives for the property, and any restrictions on use of the property.
- Conduct tours of the property on an “as needed basis”.

Property Maintenance and Restoration:

- Minor trail clearing/brushing.
- Litter pickup on the property.
- Property-boundary marker maintenance.
- Sign maintenance. The Trust can provide materials and labor for sign repairs.
- Help coordinate stewardship events on the property, such as weed pulling and tree planting parties.

Monitoring: (in addition to the required monitoring, see Required Land Steward Tasks)

- Accompany Trust staff and board members on annual monitoring visits.
- Take photographs of property from established photo points for long-term records.
- Connect with Land Steward Aide(s) for assistance as needed, and as a partner to accompany you on field visits for safety.

Management Planning:

- Assist staff, board members and other volunteers in the development, monitoring and maintenance of the property management plan.

Stewardship of other lands:

- Join other volunteer land stewards on a variety of properties to help each other address management challenges and have a more complete understanding of the property portfolio.

Scientific Surveys for Baseline Data File:

- Work with Trust staff to compile lists of birds, amphibians, or other natural history features onsite.
